We get into the habit Beyond Ethnographic Writing (Cultural Anthropology) thinking,

This is the world, but that's not true at all. The educational system of this period in so far as there was anything which could be called a system at all was not hierarchical as in popular estimation it is today, nor was education considered to be an essential requisite in the life of every child: it was a commodity, to be bought and sold like other commodities, and of which there were both cheap and expensive varieties. On Saturday, the little supermarket was quite busy, islanders and tourists buying their groceries for the weekend. There is a wide range of different concepts and theories to help the psycho dramatist to analyze and plan adequate interventions.
